

CHM 4633: Biochemical Parasitology

Brief overview of parasitology, the unique biochemistry associated with parasites, discussions of relevant therapeutic applications. The parasites responsible for malaria, toxoplasmosis, trichomoniasis, giardiasis, and African Sleeping Sickness will be studied. The biochemistry of host parasite interaction will also be explored.

Credits: 3.0

Prerequisites:

CHM 4611

CHM 4622

CHM 4611 or CHM 4622

Program: Department Chemistry and Biochemistry